Foteini Karaloglou - Graduate of the Department of Economic Sciences, International Hellenic University (IHU)

«My studies at the Department of Economic Sciences provided a solid foundation for my professional development. Through courses such as Business Administration, Human Resource Management, Operations Research and Econometrics, I gained essential knowledge and skills that helped shape my career path with clarity.

Our professors were exceptional, always approachable, supportive and willing to guide us. The University continuously informed us about new initiatives and offered a wide range of seminars and academic activities that covered every learning need. Overall, studying at IHU was a truly wonderful experience that I would choose again and again.

During my studies, I also had the opportunity to participate in two Erasmus+ programmes, which provided valuable international exposure, enhanced my intercultural understanding and broadened my academic and professional perspective.

In 2025, I completed my internship in the People & Culture Department of CENSUS S.A., a global cybersecurity engineering powerhouse. After completing my internship, I officially joined the People & Culture Department, where I continue to develop professionally and contribute to various HR-related activities.

In closing, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the Chair of the Department, Professor Persefoni Polychronidou, and to all academic and administrative staff for their continuous support and the opportunities they offered throughout our studies».
